

SUMMER CAMPS 2018!

CREATIVE EXPRESSION

When it's just too hot to be outside, the Arts Center is the cool place to be. Harness your kids' energy in one of our creative, super-fun camps! Visual arts camps include the popular Kids N' Clay camp and Mixed-Up Masterpieces, and performing arts camps include Take the Stage and Theater Camp. The project-based STEAM camp returns focusing on curriculum areas of science, technology, engineering, art and mathematics. The week-long sessions begin June 11 with the final camp ending on August 3.

Take the Stage participants will explore music, dance and drama. Students will be exposed to a variety of performing art forms and will perform a mini showcase on Friday. This camp is offered twice, June 11-15 and again July 9-13, with each session offering two age groups (6-8 and 9-13). Running at the same time is Mixed-Up Masterpieces, where students will study folk and fine art from all around the world that will inspire both traditional and unusual 2D and 3D masterpieces. A mini-showcase exhibit/reception will be held on Friday. These camps can be taken individually in the morning or afternoon, or can be combined, to offer a full day experience (10 a.m. – 3 p.m. for both camps). These camps are $110 per session, or $195 if combined during the same week.

During Kids N' Clay camp, June 18-21 and June 29, students will learn a variety of ceramic hand building techniques including pinch, slab, coil, surface decoration, and glazing from artist Alana Adams! There is no class on Friday, June 22 so the clay pieces can be fired in the kiln. Campers will return on Friday, June 29 to glaze the work with pieces fired again and ready for pick-up the following week. This camp for kids ages 7-12 is $115.

Instructor Jay Apking returns to teach two sessions of Theater Camp for kids ages 9-14. Campers will experience a mini-production and will "perform" as both the cast and the production crew. Campers will learn how to write scripts, understand and develop characters, create sets, props, and design costumes. This camp is $210 and meets 9:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. from June 25-29 and again July 23-27.

The exciting STEAM Camp returns July 30-August 3. During this fun-filled week, campers will learn about concepts such as vibrations, circuits, forces of motion, simple machines and
